Community Support Teacher

Position Summary:

Our small non-profit preschool in Longmont, CO is seeking a Level-3 or higher qualified Early Childhood Teacher to fill a full-time community support position.

The Aspen Center is a non-profit early care and education setting in Longmont, Colorado working with a diverse population of children and families. We focus on developmentally appropriate, creative experiences with children. We have a 5-star Colorado Shines quality rating.

Education and Qualifications:

- Degree in Early Childhood Education, Education, Human Development, or related field preferred
- Classroom teaching experience in a constructivist learning environment
- PDIS Credential Level III or above
- Group leader qualified
- General knowledge of the State of Colorado Child Care Licensing rules and regulations and county health department guidelines.
- CPR/First Aid Certification (preferred)

As a Community Support Teacher, you will:

- Collaborate with other ECE teachers on a daily basis to bring authentic learning experiences to children
- Be a peer model for best practice in early childhood education
- Support classroom teachers during planning, documentation time, and breaks
- Guide children’s learning experiences
- Build relationships with families to foster a strong home-school partnership
- Support school-wide needs such as laundry, dishes, playground supervision, drop off and pick up procedures
- Be first in line to substitute for teachers who are not at school
- Adhere to the COVID policies implemented by Aspen Center and recommended by the CDC, CDPHE, and Boulder County Public Health

You are a strong fit for this role if you have:

- Classroom experience
- Are well organized, able to multi-task, work with flexibility, and embrace ambiguity
- A passion for early childhood education and advocating for children, families, and teachers
- Experience working in a Reggio Emilia inspired context
- See yourself as a lifelong learner
- A desire to be a part of cultivating change
